

Gift Acceptance Policy

1 Purpose

To outline the University's approach to Philanthropic Gift acceptance.

2 Scope

This Policy applies to Philanthropic Gifts ("Gifts") offered to the University by current and prospective Donors.

It does not apply to ceremonial gifts or gifts made to individual Employees as a token of appreciation - see the Gifts and Benefits Procedure and Code of Conduct Policy.

3 Policy Statement

The University welcomes the financial support and goodwill of Donors to the University.

In considering the acceptance of a Gift the University seeks to balance the charitable intent of Donors with the values and mission of the University.

4 Principles

4.1 Gift Acceptance

The University welcomes Philanthropic Gifts that align with its Values and Mission.

The University intends that:

1. accepted Gifts align with the University's values, mission and wider strategy.
2. Gift acceptance is conducted in accordance with Government regulations and widely accepted professional standards such as the CASE Global Reporting Standards.
3. the University will not accept a Gift which is contrary to any current prevailing legislation, for example tax, finance, equal opportunities etc.
4. Advancement may choose to not accept Gifts where restrictions placed on the use of the Gift, or any ongoing commitments expected as part of a Gift, create an obligation for the University that is disproportionate to the expected impact of the Gift. Offered Gifts that are not accepted may:

- a. expose the University to adverse publicity;
- b. infringe on University values of independence and academic integrity;
- c. extend University resources beyond reasonable limits; or
- d. involve the University in new and unplanned activities beyond the scope of its Strategic Plan.

- 5. Advancement is responsible for determining the source of a Gift and its likely impact and will consult across the University as needed in making a determination about acceptance.
- 6. Advancement may choose to not accept Gifts where restrictions placed on the use of the Gift, or any ongoing commitments expected as part of a Gift, create an obligation for the University that is disproportionate to the expected impact of the Gift.
- 7. The University does not offer advice on tax and tax deductions in relation to Gifts. Advancement to ensure that Donors are made aware that they should seek out professional services that can provide specific financial advice.
- 8. The University reserves the right to refuse any Gift that is offered.

4.2 Acknowledgement of Gifts

Advancement will align Gift acknowledgement with an appropriate Donor recognition framework. All monetary Gifts accepted by the University will be acknowledged via a communication from Advancement to the Donor. Advancement will arrange a tax receipt for all monetary Gifts accepted.

4.3 Gift Records

All Gifts accepted by the University, regardless of source or value, must be recorded with Advancement. Gifts-in-Kind may be accepted.

4.4 Gifts of Real Estate

The University may accept a Gift of real estate on the understanding that it may be disposed of for cash and the proceeds used to support the intent of the Donor or a strategic objective of the University.

4.5 Gifts of Artefacts - including Artworks, Cultural Materials and

Musical Instruments or Mechanical Items

1. The University may accept Gifts that are Artworks in accordance with the Art Collection Policy.
2. The University may consult relevant specialists on gift acceptance for physical items and/or Cultural Materials that may have value to the University but may or may not have a market value.
