

English Language Proficiency Requirements Procedure

1 Purpose

To set out how Applicants can demonstrate they meet English language proficiency requirements for Admission to their chosen program of study.

2 Scope

This Procedure applies to all prospective Students applying for entry into Award and Non-Award Programs delivered by the University at undergraduate, postgraduate and Higher Degree by Research (HDR) levels, including Study Abroad and exchange Students.

3 Procedure Overview

English language proficiency requirements take into consideration the level of English language skills needed to commence and successfully progress through a program of study and to meet the requirements of any professional registration and external accreditation bodies, where required.

This Procedure aligns with the:

- Higher Education Standards Framework (Threshold Standards) 2021: Standard 1.1 Admissions, Standard 7.2 Information for Prospective and Current Students

4 Procedures

Programs at the University are delivered in the English language. All Applicants seeking entry to the University's programs must meet the minimum English language proficiency requirements for their chosen program.

Evidence used to demonstrate an Applicant's English language proficiency includes:

- a completed University-recognised English language proficiency test, not more than two (2) years old at the date of application to the University
- a completed University-recognised preparatory English language, or comparable pathway program

- previous study or qualification in Australia or in a recognised country where English is used as the language of instruction
- evidence of a sufficient level of accumulated English language skills through a combination of qualifications, academic experience, research publications, work and life experience.

Applicants who have undertaken study taught entirely in English in a country not on the University-recognised country list are required to provide documented evidence, including verification from a recognised institution.

The University may accept other evidence that demonstrates equivalence to English language proficiency requirements on the recommendation of the Program Director and the approval of the Dean (Academic) or Head of College and Dean (Pathways Education), whichever is responsible for the program, and on the approval of the Dean (Graduate Research School) for HDR programs. Outcomes of such Decisions will not be used to establish any precedent for Admission or non-Admission into a program.

The University reserves the right to request that an Applicant undertakes an English language test in addition to any other evidence of English language proficiency provided. Further details on Admission requirements for programs are set out in the Admissions Procedure.

4.1 Standard requirements

Standard English language proficiency requirements apply to most of the University's programs. Standard requirements are set out in the Standard English Language Proficiency Requirements Table on the University's website.

4.2 Non-standard requirements

Non-standard English language proficiency requirements which are specific to a program are listed in the Non-standard English Language Proficiency Requirements Table on the University's website.

Programs with professional registration or accreditation requirements may have separate or additional English requirements which must be met.

4.3 Accumulated English language proficiency

Evidence of English language skills which were accumulated within the last 10 years through a combination of qualifications, academic experience, research publications, work and life experience may be submitted for assessment for equivalence to English language proficiency requirements. Assessments will be made on a case-by-case basis unless otherwise stated in the Non-Standard Requirements Table or based on professional registration or accreditation requirements.

4.4 Professional registration

Recognition of qualifications by some industry bodies, or registration to practice with some professional accreditation authorities including health and education, may have specific or additional English proficiency requirements.

These requirements are separate from the English language proficiency requirements for Admission to the University and may be more demanding or restrictive.

4.5 English language proficiency requirements for a Student visa

Students may be required to demonstrate specific or additional English language proficiency when applying for a Student visa under the Simplified Student Visa Framework. Students should refer to the Department of Home Affairs to check the English proficiency level and evidence that is required for Student visa applications.

4.6 English language programs

Applicants who do not meet the requirements listed in this Procedure may be able to attain the necessary proficiency through the University's English language programs.
